

Bullet Points for Agri Science

During the 2016-2017 school year I will utilize the following bullet points to help students in the field of agriscience.

- How to properly research.
- To realize that science happens around us every day and is important to our daily lives.
- To have better public speaking skills through weekly current event assignments.
- What exactly agriscience is
- To learn about the importance of agriculture.
- A thorough understanding of natural resources.
- To get an idea of the importance and advancements technology has in the environment.
- To develop a scientific vocabulary.
- To get a thorough understanding of the career opportunities that are there for kids in agriculture.
- To learn about the needs people have and how agriculture can help them.
- To learn how to identify problems.
- To learn how to classify living things.
- Know basic problem-solving skills.
- The opportunity to hear workers in the field of agriculture talk about their careers and how they got there.
- Learn how to organize data.